What can you save by moving to the cloud?

You can't put a price on your organization's reputation or the peace of mind you get knowing your data is secure. But when you move to LPC Cloud, there are some real savings you can measure.

$720,000 per breach

The amount that mature cloud security practices could save your organization, compared to having no cloud-based security[1]

$25,000 - $30,000 per year

Money your organization could save by retiring on-site servers and eliminating expenses related to updates, audits and maintenance[2]

$7,500 - $10,000 per year

Wages spent on server maintenance that you could save, based on a median wage of $43.25 per hour for healthcare IT employees[2]

$2,950 average per year

Average annual fees for Magic and Pervasive licenses you'll no longer need to pay when you're on the cloud

180 - 240 hours per year

The time IT staff members could spend on other priorities[2]

What's the cost of a data breach?

You do your best to protect your organization's healthcare data. But failing to protect against increasingly sophisticated cyber criminals can have devastating consequences.

$4.35 million

Average cost of a data breach, which reached an all-time high in 2022[1]

$4.82 million

Average cost of a breach for "critical infrastructure" orgs, which includes healthcare[1]

15-20 hours per month

The estimated time IT staff spend maintaining, patching and updating on-site servers[2]

83%

Organizations that have had more than one data breach[1]

41.6%

Cost increase of a healthcare data breach since 2020[1]
